

LEGEND

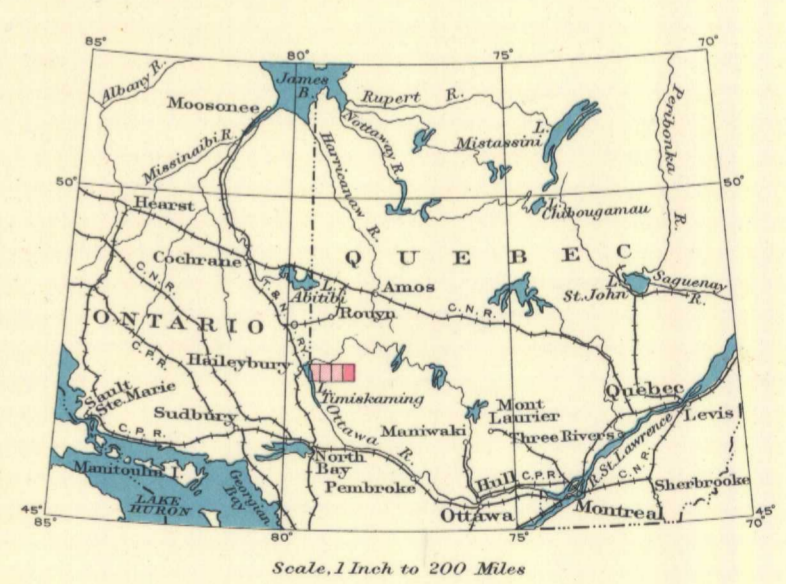

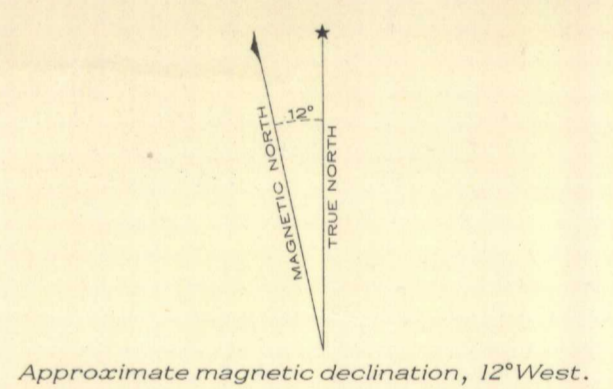

NOTE.—Outcrops or areas of outcrop of a formation are shown by deep colour; inferred extensions of a formation beneath drift are shown by a lighter tint of the same colour.
 Small outcrops are shown thus: x

| 8                           | Granite, granodiorite and allied rocks   |
| 7                           | Granite, pegmatite, aplite and sedimentary gneiss, granitic matter predominating               |
| 6                           | Quartz-albite porphyry   |
| 5                           | Quartz diorite, diorite, gabbro, peridotite  |
| ARCHEAN (EARLY PRECAMBRIAN) |  |
| 4                           | Greywacke and arkose largely altered to mica schist, conglomerate                              |
| 3                           | Biotite and biotite-hornblende gneiss and schist (altered sediments) with much granitic matter |
| KEEWATIN                    |  |
| 2                           | Rhyolite, dacite, tuff, agglomerate  |
| 1                           | Andesite, basalt, tuff, tuffaceous sediments, iron formation, undifferentiated intrusives      |

Note A. This area though shown as an area of bedrock outcrops is in reality mainly drift-covered, but has been trenched at close intervals to bedrock.
