

Figure 9. Map of calculated target function value as a function of two unknown parameters, showing the likely parameter space for the least square solution, the western Sverdrup Basin clastic structural play in the Canadian Arctic. The color bar indicates the logarithmically converted target function value.