

Figure 1. Models of temperature profiles defined by a power law function (Eq. 3), allowing a linear relationship between temperature and depth being modified by surface forcing and transient geological processes in this study (1a). Corresponding temperature gradient profiles of the three typical types of temperature profiles (1b).