

Figure 3. Regional map of the northern Cordilleran volcanic province (Edwards and Russell, 2000; Edwards et al., 2010). Highlighted is the volcano, informally named Kima'Kho, located within the Tuya-Kawdy volcanic field (right). Note photograph highlights explosive cone (left) and classic flat plateau of effusive lavas overlying pillow-bearing tuff breccias (looking west).